

December 5, 2025

We hope you all had a wonderful Thanksgiving with family and friends! If you ventured out for Black Friday, we hope you found some great deals and successfully navigated the crowds.

Next week our Wildcats will either continue or begin to take their iReady Math and Reading winter diagnostics. These assessments help us monitor progress from the fall diagnostics and guide instruction to ensure each child continues to grow. Diagnostic reports will come home in January.

We are very excited to welcome our ESC (Extended Support Classrooms) families to Wilson for our first Buddy Club activity of the year! Students and families will enjoy a craft activity and a snack together. A special thank you goes out to our amazing teachers for coordinating this sensory-friendly event. Once we get the Club and activities off the ground, we hope to include our entire Wilson community in future Buddy Club events. Stay tuned for future opportunities!

We're looking forward to a festive and wonderful month ahead!

Important Change to Wilson Parent Update Delivery

As we shared before Thanksgiving break, we've changed the delivery dynamic for our weekly update. To minimize district and school emails flooding inboxes, our weekly update will be sent as a "digest" message. That means you would not receive the email until later in the day (this is the default setting). If, however, you would still like to receive the update at 9:30am on Fridays, you will either need to adjust your notification settings to "instant" in ParentSquare, or log into ParentSquare at 9:30am on Fridays to review the message.

You can visit our district website for more information about ParentSquare and to find specific instructions about notification settings. To get our update via email right at 9:30 a.m., you should set your email notifications to "instant".
